Perhaps you have met a girl you have always dreamed of through an European dating site and you're struggling now with trying to sustain your relationship while the both of you are getting ready for her to come over to your country or you travelling to hers. If you look at statistics figures, it's not unusual to find a big percentage of married couples who have been at one point going through their relationship before their wedding while being away from one another. Whether this means that the partners met and conducted their courtship online, or met in person via a dating agency and had to go back home to sort the paperwork to be together, this just means that there is hope for long distance marriages to work out.

Set your boundaries, goals and expectations with each other.

It is normal in any relationship to have some feelings of jealousy and insecurity. You may be imagining the other men who could be in contact with your amazing girlfriend and feel the same way about her. At the same time, your sweetheart may be wondering if she's the most important woman in your life and if you really are serious about her. While these musings can't be controlled, what's under your control is how you deal with things like these together. Couples in online relationships have figured out a way to deal with the issues of long distance dating: setting clear boundaries and expectations. This will eliminate the misunderstandings and arguments over unneeded jealousy. Since your main goal is to get wedded eventually, it is just natural to expect each other to stick to certain boundaries, especially regarding the opposite sex.

It's very important to be in constant contact.

It is very important to always be in touch, especially when it comes to dating on an European dating site and being together is not yet possible. Calling and emailing constantly will make you feel closer and more connected. Feeling the closeness and connection is very important for every marriage, they will make getting over difficult situations a lot easier and the relationship work better. Thankfully, modern technology is on the side of online couples across the world. There is no shortage of ways to be in touch every day and on top of that, these methods of communication are not too expensive. Through a combination of web cam chats, emails and virtual dates, provided by pretty much any European dating site, there really is no difficulty in keeping in touch.

Hold honest discussions about money.

One aspect of online dating that has been getting some shady reputation is the accusations of some folks that it has become a centre of fraudsters. Hopefully you're not suspicious of your long distance girlfriend anyway, but to get over any suspicions of frauds and scams, talk to her about both of your finances. If she tells you she's been shopping, you could always ask what she got and how much it cost. Only from this, you can already glean if she knows how to handle her money. If you're just an average Joe, discussing finances is very important as you wouldn't want to learn one day that your gorgeous girlfriend has spent your entire salary.
